::DISCUSSION QUESTIONS::

- 1. Can you list some of the situations in which you and/or other people in your community have to deal with police?
- 2. What are some practical ways that your community could limit these interactions? What would be required for this to be more feasible/likely?
- 3. What sorts of anti-police initiatives do you find inspiring? What about these initiatives do you find inspiring, and what lessons can be applied to struggles within your local community?
- 4. What sorts of community policing initiatives occur within your neighbourhood/workplace? Who are these initiatives aimed at building trust with, and what would disrupting them look like in practice?
- 5. Are there other groups and communities that you could work with in your area who are oppressed by, or already actively opposed to the police? What obstacles exist to working with these groups, and what concrete steps could be taken to bridge these divides?
