Questions for discussion

1. What are some of the organizing projects that people in the room are currently involved in?
2. What is direct action? How do strategies based on the use of direct action tactics differ from those based around spreading awareness and making demands to leaders & politicians (either through petitions, boycotts, marches, etc)?
3. How does the principle of self-organization work in practice, particularly as it relates to bringing new people into struggles? What is the role of the organizer in this process?
4. What is the distinction between mutual aid and charity, and what role does this distinction have in terms of organizing?
5. This film discusses the concept of dual power within the context of revolutionary organizing. How can this principle be applied to neighbourhood organizing, and what might that look like in practice?
